RP1 now live: https://www.businesswire.com/news/home/20250609238916/en/RP1-Launches-the-Worlds-First-Metaverse-Browser
To start you can create meetings up to 250 people. The entire map is open for exploration and in 3 months ish you can build your own metaverse servers just like web servers and point it at our map for instant discoverability.

glTF is seeking final input on KHR_interactivity. We invite content creators, artists, implementers and engine developers to explore with the openly available tools and sample assets to integrate interactive glTF content into their projects. - https://www.khronos.org/blog/gltf-interactivity-extensions-approach-finalization-your-feedback-needed

This is about the interoperability of the metaverse, so it should be reviewed by the entire industry. Not just an inside comment and then it is final.

KhronosGroup/glTF#2293 (review)

We need to get Aaron's voice heard in Khronos. How do we do that? We need to find out where it is good to share this, or who to talk to, or get more voices echoing this.

Send an email about this to the W3C group?

jimmy: summarisation of monthly proceedings of Discord ongoing. "Newsletter" also using the voice recordings from the SeaVoice bot - thanks VAV1ST who implemented it for non-english speakers.

Suggestion: If other people have calls or wish to share things, get onto the meeting voice channel and use SeaVoice to capture it in text, to have it absorbed and included in the newsletter.

One of our mission areas is to promote the work of others - blow the trumpet for our members. One recent example is mrmetaverse Cadderly - can we rally around this and amplify his efforts - and of course other people too?
Need to get back to organising events. Need a game plan. - jimmy is thinking about this - thanks! Everyone to suggest thoughts, concerns.

How about absorbing blogs into the SeaVoice thing? for example indiebio been writing a bunch of social related stuff, but I feel insecure about how good it is, lol. But having more voices and input would be great.
