Suggesting depriorizing the website check in until we have more to report. At the present moment omigroup.org is functional, and folks are split across other projects to get this moving forward. A backlog is established and a working group is formed to manage inbound requests, but there isn't much to report for the 3rd week in a row.

Also Metaversity request for participation proposal will be submitted before next Wednesday. The initial group is still working out some details like why you should care and how you can get involved.

Notes:
Rather than host our own hackathon we may join the WebXR hackathon and sponsor a prize.
