We have been taking a different format approach for the last two weeks. Today will mark the last installment of this series which consists of Lean Coffee. I encourage you to revisit last week meeting 35 and the week before meeting 34 notes to ensure we are not forgetting anything.

Next week we can* resume of traditional format like week 33.

Last week we agreed that someone else would be writing these agendas, and that we could divide and conquer our work better. We also have a new working group kicking off in January, the WASM group. Furthermore, we have other groups which are loosely organized, and could do better.

Last, we have the website group which has been in operation for several months. The group has no fixed meeting time, but is making progress, like this mobile design from Jesse James and Shadow from last week. Shadow documented their work here: omigroup/website#48

I merged this PR from Robert but don't see the changes reflected.

Up next: Implement these new changes from Shadow and Jesse James
